

'Farm-To-Table' Dinner Party

In the historic Barn at Audubon Greenwich

Saturday, October 15

6:00-9:00 pm

A unique, food-centric event showcasing local organic farms, seasonal meals, and sustainably managed vineyards. Guests will be treated to exquisite wines paired with farm-fresh goodness sourced from organic & biodynamic farms. The evening will include wine education from the Wine Institute of New England (WINE), live music by trio Jealous Dog, and an auction of small items to benefit Audubon's conservation and education initiatives.

1958: The old barn in its heyday. The kitchen was always busy, serving three meals a day to teachers who traveled to Greenwich from all over the US, Canada, Europe, and even Latin America, to learn about ecology and new ways include science and nature studies into classroom lessons. This special experience, formally known as the Audubon Ecology Workshop in Greenwich, continued through the 1990's. Today, the barn is used for special events and party rentals.
