

Native Habitat Restoration Matching Challenge

Your gift has double the impact thanks to a matching challenge grant of $61,000.

This special challenge gift will enable us to address one of the greatest threats to our sanctuaries – invasive plant species. Our native plants are being choked out by aggressive alien plants across our sanctuaries, and the wildlife that depend on native plants are losing critical sources of food, shelter and nesting habitat. Help us restore habitat for native pollinators, migratory songbirds, and other wildlife

With your support, we'll be able to implement an intensive invasive species management plan on our Main Sanctuary. Together, we'll restore the health of this haven in our community.

To make your contribution and for more information contact Michelle Frankel, Center Director at 203-930-1350 or mfrankel@audubon.org.

Matching challenge made possible by the generous support of The Dilmaghani Family, who have enjoyed and appreciated the Audubon Greenwich sanctuaries over four generations. They would like to encourage all people who treasure these sanctuaries to participate in their restoration.
